An honest Confession.

If we were asked the reason why "Viavi" performs such wonderful cures, we would be honest, and say, "We don't know." Ask a scientist why an apple invariably falls downward, and he would say it was due to the law of #### Gravitation.

That is about all he could tell you. It is no more natural for bodies to gravitate toward the center of the earth than it is for "Viavi" to cure the diseases peculiar to women. It is not a drug, but a food, which nourishes and strengthens the affected parts, thereby enabling nature to throw off the disease. Our Health Book sent free.

HIS EXCUSE.

Jerry Simpson Tells Why He Is a Populist.

His Conclusion Has No Relation to Premise.

A UNIQUE CHARACTER.

Mr. Wilson a Small Man With a Big Voice.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(Special.)—

There are certain factions or cabals subversive in this house of representatives whose condition is calculated to excite mirth in one not too deeply interested. Among them are the progressive Republicans, the antisilver or so-called "Wall street Democrats," the mildly protectionist Democrats, the seven Republicans from the south, and, lastly, the populists, the latter again subdivided into those who are Populists from the ground up and those who are really Democrats with a thin Populist veneer.

Of course, the radical Populists look forward to holding the balance of power in the next house and expect to choose the speaker, and it is already talked in the capital that if they do Jerry Simpson is to be that speaker. If he is, there will be fun.

Everybody knows by this time that Jerry Simpson is a Populist, a green-sucker in a statio, a tree trailer, a single taxer and a good all-around reformer. Everybody does not know, however, that outside of politics he is one of the most genial and companionable men in Washington, and has had a wealth of experience on land and lake, in timber and prairie, in peace, war and politics, which to the hands of a skilled writer would make his biography more fascinating than a tame novel. Jerry says that "of all occupations which man can follow there is none so healthful as that of a sailor. He has all the advantages of regular hours, open air and the like, which farmers have, and has in addition complete exemption from dust, mud and stagnant heat. There is always a breeze, a literal fellow, who fears God, believes in justice and wants to do something for his fellow man; hence I am a Populist."

A Photo Case.

The unique character among northwestern Republicans is John L. Wilson, who is a little bigger than a bar of soap, but if you could hear him talk from behind a screen you might think he weighed a ton. He says: "On this silver question those eastern fellows are hurting themselves worse than they are us. They are unwise enough to think that hostility to silver only hurts the west, and that but for a short time. But as a matter of fact in actuality that belongs to the east. They own all the railroads, nearly all the mines, the stage companies and the steamboat companies, and it is dollars to pennies that in one way or another they own a very large proportion of the land and the sheep and cattle. Now, when they eat down our profits, and the volume of money, and the general return on everything, what about us? Well, who can make money on a fallowing market? I have tried it. We had in our bank $50,000 in gold clean cash when the scare began and good gilt edge paper enough to pay all demands and a good deal more, but what did it signify? The people thought our paper was no account, and for immediate purposes it was not. We ought to realize on it. They organized in our city, withdrew their deposits, swept away our men and shut us up. Now along come the Democrats and Republicans in addition to destroy some of our best industries, to take a whack at our timber, and our sheep, and our lead, and our coal, and hand over what little profit we have to those fellows just over the line in British Columbia. When they do it, we shall be fat on our backs, of course. But we shan't stay there. We'll get up and do something. We can stand it because we have the resources. But those eastern fellows will howl for their dividends and wish the thing was to do over again. You hear me?"

Twice Two Fives.

With this statement the silver Republicans all agree. There is one point in common with all the factions above mentioned. They are all spendid talkers, and no one need be in doubt as to their opinions.

The older hand, the eastern Democrats, take a rather lofty tone and affect to treat the western views on silver as a mere delusion. Mr. Coombs of Brooklyn says:

"Of course we shall worry through and when we come to Topeka, and prosperity will return. It is remaining, in fuel, and everything will be in splendid shape, and the Democrats will get another lease of power in 1896. They don't deserve it, you know, but they will get it just the same, because the people will take their choice between two evils. And they will see that with all their foolishness the Democrats are a little better than the Republicans."

Such eastern Republicans as General Grosvenor and Mr. Payne of New York take occasion to triumph rather maliciously over their Democratic neighbors and accuse every fair opportunity to make the point on these divisions on silver and tariff.

But such men as Mr. Walker of Massachusetts depurate this kind of talk and say: "We shall need all the help we can get to make a sound money system secure." With this view a great many Democrats of the south and west agree, but their opinions as to what sound money is differ very radically. In the present condition of what might be called suspended legislation, while the senate discusses the tariff and the house deals with measures of a not very exciting character, these opinions are of value as indicating what the final division will be.

An Unfounded Report.

The proposition that the president was to sign the Bland-Smoorhouse bill on condition that the silver men pledge themselves to be content with that for the rest of this congress was no sooner made than it was vehemently denied. One side declared that the proposition emanated from the house banking and currency committee, and the other as vehemently declared that it came from the White House—a variance which shows plainly enough that neither side is willing to accept the responsibility of it. The silver men declare with something like indignation that no such bargain will bind them. The banking and currency committee declare with real indignation that they have made no proposition of that sort, and the friends of the president declare that such a thing has not been thought of. The only wonder, then, is how the story originated, as it is so unpopular that no one will own the authorship of it. We must refer it perhaps to the game which the ancient philosophers assigned for the origin of the world—a far-fetched concourse of atoms.

DUTCH MILLIONAIRES.

Manager Frey Escorts Holland Bondholders Over the Santa Fe Route.

When the Chicago and Denver train on the Santa Fe pulled into the depot here at 11:30 o'clock today, the tops of the coaches were covered with snow and ice.

The most remarkable feature about this train, however, was that it carried with it, in General Manager Frey's special private car, two Europeans who represent most of the money invested in the Santa Fe system.

These men were Mr. Adam Roelvink and Mr. J. C. Loman both of Amsterdam, Holland, and representing the Holland bondholders. These men came to America to make a personal inspection of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad in which they have invested many millions of dollars.

Since the road has gone into the hands of a receiver appointed by the United States court, the Hollanders are not receiving any interest on their investment and they have now sent these two gentlemen over here to make an inspection of the property and enquire into the management of affairs which has shrunk to nothing.

Messrs. Roelvink and Loman arrived in New York a few days ago and were met in Chicago yesterday by General Manager J. J. Frey who is now escorting them over the entire Santa Fe system. They are now on their way to Denver where they will arrive tomorrow morning.

From Denver they will go to El Paso and from there the trip is not definitely planned, but they will probably go through to Los Angeles, California.

LAWLESSNESS IN IOWA.

Executives in Iowa Towns Won't Obey the New Liquor Law.

SHOU CITY, Iowa, March 29.—Mayor Fletcher, who is at the head of the police department by virtue of his office, has said that the city administration here will not undertake to enforce the new liquor law known as the Martin law.

The eighty saloons of the city will continue to run as of old, and the keepers will be fined $10 each month in police court for disturbing the peace.

In this decision he is sustained by practically the entire council and nearly all the citizens, who fear the new law is impracticable and distasteful.

Dispatches received here from Esterville, Fort Dodge, Lemars, Creston, Council Bluffs and several other towns in western Iowa, are to the effect that the new law does not answer the purpose, and that the old fine system of regulating saloons will be continued.

SHEEP MAKE TROUBLE.

Curious Effect of Their Being Driven into Colorado.

DENVER, Colo., March 29.—M. M. Colby of Delta county has had another conference with the governor regarding the threatened invasion of Utah sheep.

He says 140,000 are being driven toward the state line and the devastating army had reached a point yesterday 40 miles west of the Colorado line.

The Mormon church owns 70,000 of the entire herd. Mr. Colby claims that if the sheep are allowed to enter the state at this season they will tramp down the soft ground so that the spring rains will run off in a torrent instead of supplying the small streams for several months.

It is feared there will be a battle between the cattlemen and sheep owners, if the latter attempt to cross the line.

FIRST GLEAM OF LIGHT.

Southern Women Begin the Movement for the Right to Vote.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 29.—About twenty of the leading women of this city, interested in church and benevolent work have organized a woman's suffrage association. Mrs. McLendon, a member of an aristocratic family was elected president. Their ideals is to push the question of woman suffrage so as to have a good report to make to the National association, which meets here next year.

Within a month, there will be a woman suffrage association organized in every city in the state.

The preachers of this city have taken a decided stand against the movement, which only challenges the opposition of the women.

NO EARLY STRAWBERRIES.

Will be Raised in Tennessee, Kentucky and North Carolina.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 29.—A telegram to commission houses in this city from Tennessee, Kentucky and North Carolina says the strawberry crop in those states will be a failure.

Throughout southern Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Arkansas, Texas, in fact throughout the whole southwest, where more or less snow has fallen the early fruits and even grain have been seriously injured by the severe cold.

GEN. MILES GOES WEST.

The Noted Army Officer Passes Through Topeka Bound for California.

This morning's Denver and Chicago Santa Fe train going west, carried a distinguished party enroute to California. This party consisted of General Nelson A. Miles, the Indian fighting general of the United States army, with his family who are now taking a pleasure trip.

They are traveling in one of the finest special cars on wheels, which is the property of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway company. General Miles and party were at dinner when they passed through Topeka.

In Receivers Hands.

Clerk Schilder of the federal court received word today that the Ft. Scott Water Supply company, whose bonds are owned by the same corporation controlling those of Topeka and other western towns, had passed, like the Topeka Water Supply company, into the hands of a receiver. Elias Schumacher is named as receiver.

NEWS OF KANSAS.

Peculiar Conduct of Union Pacific at Leavenworth.

Santa Fe Asked to Operate the Southwestern.

OTHER STATE NEWS.

Murder of Chapman at Pittsburgh Still a Mystery.

LEAVENWORTH, March 29.—Shortly after abandoning the Leavenworth, Topeka &amp; Southwestern railroad, the Union Pacific officials at this place notified the Santa Fe that it would switch no more cars for that road on Choctaw street, which virtually shut them off from the manufacturing portion of the city. After waiting a few days, the Santa Fe, which has the same rights as the Union Pacific to the Choctaw street tracks, put on an engine and switching crew. This seemed too much for the Union Pacific, and it decided to withdraw from the Choctaw street and all connections with the abandoned road. This it did last night in a stealthy manner without notifying manufacturers or merchants, and, as far as can be learned, it took all Union Pacific cars on the sidetracks and streets quietly away to Kansas City. Some of the cars were partially loaded with merchandise and coal, and the affair is vigorously denounced by citizens.

The taking of the cars nearly caused the shutting off of the electric light plant, and there is some talk of having arrests made over it. The Union Pacific has the only switching facilities to one of the coal mines, and its decision to handle no more cars for the Santa Fe will practically shut the company off from all city trade with the manufacturers.
